LIONS HEAR SCATHING WORDS ON MANNER IN WHICH NATION'S INDIGENTS ARE LOOKED AFTER

A blistering denunciation of the manner in which Canada has handled her disabled and less fortunate was delivered before members of the Grimsby Lions Club meeting in the Masonic Hall last night by H. Lyons, field secretary of the Canadian Institute for the Blind. Mr. Lyons, who discussed the growth of the Institute and its work, declared that it was necessary for organizations such as the one he represented to come to the public with an annual appeal simply because Canadians have broken faith with the 65,000 Canadian who were lost in the last war.

"You haven't kept faith with the wounded men of the first war, those thousands of Canadians who believed that their sacrifices would result in a new order. We have continued to break faith with those who have returned. Look at our veterans' allowances. Actually we—you and I, should have recognized the services of every man and woman," he said.

"That new order would have provided for the blind and underprivileged. It would have looked after our aged men and women in a way that would be better than the lousy and miserable way we do it today. We give our old age pensioners twenty dollars a month under certain conditions. How would you feel if you were forced to come down to that level? Our relief pensioners have to take pieces of paper into the stores and haggle over boiling beef and a few potatoes and onions. Our young men—we could not provide them with a continuity of training, let alone shelter and food. They drifted on to the highways and started wandering. It's all wrong. We've got to determine that we are going to prove ourselves worthy of the sacrifices that were made at Dieppe, and with the thousands who are going to die in the months to come. We must extend to our people the just recognition that they are our people, that they are of our number, and that they have that recognition coming when they fall on evil times. We are all responsible for the situation which has arisen, and we must determine that it must end. It's your responsibility and mine."

Mr. Lyons, who was among the group of eight blind service men who started the Institute twenty-three years ago, stated that the organization is second in size only to the National Institute in Great Britain. It serves some fourteen thousand blind people throughout Canada, of which thirty-nine hundred are in Ontario and between seventy and eighty in Lincoln County. Mr. Lyons said that because blindness was so often associated with poverty, his organization has had a lot of work to do for the needy blind of the country.

"Finding employment for blind men and women is the toughest row we have to hoe," he said. "In our industrial division we have 215 men making a living wage. Ninety-five per cent of them are married, and it is quite possible that they might have been in receipt of a pension of some sort. But they are working, making hampers for the medical corps and targets for bombing. These war products are being made because of charity. They are being made in competition with other industries."

Describing the work of blind people trained through the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Mr. Lyons stated that cafeterias are staffed by blind people, and at busy spots where the best workers available were required. The Globe and Mail building in Toronto is staffed and ready to cater to three thousand five hundred people a day. Altogether there are

Death Of Charles Peterson Removes Local Young Man

After a brief illness, death came last Tuesday morning to Charles Wesley Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Peterson, Grimsby, in Hamilton General Hospital. He was in his thirty-second year.

The late Mr. Peterson was born in Grimsby in 1911, and has resided here nearly all his life. Late last August he married Miss Clover Merritt, and since then he has made his home at Van Wagner's Beach. He had been employed in an industrial plant at Hamilton.

He was a member of Union Lodge, No. 7, A.F. & A.M., and an adherent of St. John's Presbyterian Church. Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, George, living at Dunnville. The funeral service is being held this afternoon from the Stonehouse Funeral Home under auspices of the Masonic Order. Interment is to be made in Queen's Lawn Cemetery.

The pallbearers are J. L. Dunham, J. R. Lewis, L. Hysert, H. Moore, W. M. Lawson and R. C. Bourne.

Evening Classes Are Not Feasible

The demand for higher training brought about by Canada's war program is reflected in the requests which have been received by P. V. Smith, principal of the Grimsby High School, that night classes in commercial work, mathematics and science be started for younger adults.

"Our teachers are so heavily laden as it is, that I am not prepared to make any recommendation in this regard," Mr. Smith told the Board of Education last night. He said that several of the upper school students were taking typing, and that this subject is available to all pupils in the upper school. Eight other pupils are taking bookkeeping, shorthand or both. The commercial class of grade ten consists of 16 pupils.

Nephew Of Local Man Is Mentioned

Captain William C. Dick, Hamilton, now overseas with the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. John Dick, was among those who distinguished themselves in the Dieppe raid. He was wounded three times during the operations, once on landing, once when he reached his objective, and again on leaving. He has been mentioned in dispatches.

Appoint Caretaker For High School

James A. Cowan has been appointed to the position of caretaker at the high school by the Board of Education, and he has started his duties. The Board agreed to pay James Heywood $90 for work which he did pending the appointment of a full-time man.

Public school attendance now stands at 342 pupils, as compared to 308 at this time last year, according to Principal Kenneth Griffith. Mr. Griffith stated that he thought there would be a "few"

Bring Your Own Coffee Is New Rule Laid Down For Grimsby Lions Club

The meetings of the Grimsby Lions Club will be held on the second and fourth Mondays of the month in the Masonic Hall, instead of the first and third Tuesdays as in the past. Catering for the time being, is being done by the members of the I.O.E. In this connection, a wartime note crept into the affairs when President James W. Baker last night warned the members not to expect too much in the way of menus, pointing out that difficulties which they ex-

A. R. Globe has been appointed to the Lincoln County Victory Loan Committee, and will head the Grimsby District Committee for the forthcoming loan. It was announced in St. Catharines. Mr. Globe will have under him as the general committee W. R. Boehm, H. Beresford Scott, E. J. Muir, P. V. Smith and Hugh C. Campbell.

Mr. Boehm will again head the sales committee, and salesmen appointed are E. J. Marsh, B. W. Shantz, J. A. Jacklin, J. H. Gillespie, and John E. Lawson. The salesmen will be attending a meeting to be held in the Leonard Hotel next Wednesday morning to lay plans for the campaign.

While the local objective has not as yet been set, it is expected that final arrangements have been made for the Grimsby and township loan within a day or two. The office space in the Stevens Block has been taken over, as a headquarters, and a telephone installed.

The Lincoln County National War Finance Committee is again headed by Dr. J. G. Fox, with C. B. Hill, St. Catharines, as head of the sales committee, Alfred Buntin, Toronto, organizer for the county, and Cecil J. Horton organizer for the west end townships.

LEGION BINGO AT BEAMSVILLE THIS FRIDAY

Rev. J. Norman Rawson to be Speaker at Legion Party—Several Door Prizes as Well as Poultry Offered.

Scouts and Canadian Legion members have been busy during the past several weeks selling tickets to what might be one of the biggest bingo games to have ever been held in the district. The bingo takes place tomorrow (Friday) night at the Community Hall, Beamsville, and the proceeds are to further the work of the West Lincoln Branch.

The evening will consist of twenty games, for which the prizes will be turkeys and chickens. In addition to these prizes there will be fifteen prizes of ten dollars in cash to be awarded to the holders of lucky tickets. Bingo tickets for the turkey games are going at a quarter each, while chicken games are a dime.

Apple Day Next Saturday Being Held By Scouts

One of the most distinctive displays that has been seen here for some time is that of James W. Baker, scoutmaster of the Grimsby Troop, arranged in connection with the scout apple day which will be held next Saturday. The display consists of simply a window full of apples, red apples set in a "V" on a background of green apples.

The Scouts got underway for the week after the summer holidays last week, and the attendance of twenty-two was considered to be good. Two new members, Donald MacAlone and Donald Moberly, were welcomed.

Mr. Baker emphasized that scout work was carried on without any other appeal to the citizens than the apple day, and expressed the hope that all would support the boys in their work.

more pupils starting school in the near future.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS START RIGOROUS YEAR WITH DEFENCE NEW SUBJECT IN CURRICULUM

One hundred and twenty-eight high school students started their studies last Monday in a school year which is expected to be one of the heaviest ever faced by Ontario students. In addition to the fact that several weeks out of the school year have been lost through the early closing and late opening, a new course in defence studies has been added to the curriculum.

In discussing the matter, Principal P. V. Smith stated that the same hours which prevailed last year would be in force again this year, with the school closing at a quarter past four instead of three-forty and the noon period consisting of one hour and fifteen minutes. In addition to this, the upper school pupils will be starting Saturday classes on October 17.

Mr. Smith reported that the spirit of the pupils was high, and that the year has been started well, with good attendance and enthusiasm on the part of the students. Three new teachers who have joined the staff appear to be suited to their new positions. They are Miss Grace Calder, who came from Streetsville High School, and who will teach mathematics and girls' physical culture, Miss Esther Turpin, formerly of Long Branch High School, who will teach art and Latin, and Carl King, Ontario College of Education, who will teach lower school English, social studies and physical culture.

While the enrollment figure of 128 is higher than last year, it is expected that it will be even higher, as there are a few who will be returning to the school next Tuesday.

The course in national defence, which is being started this year, is a development of cadet work to suit modern requirements. Mr. Smith said that its purpose, as outlined in the syllabus of study, is to "provide training for boys and girls to make them conscious of the national need to prepare them to serve in any capacity should the need of their services arise." Mr. Smith took a five weeks' course given cadet instructors last summer, while Mr. King and Miss Calder have also attended classes to fit them for this work.

The subjects to be taken up, apart from the usual drill, will include military organization, civilian protection, signalling, navigation, air frame and theory of flight, internal combustion engines, and first aid. In addition to this there will be studies of home nursing for girls, and lessons in physiology and healthful living.

At the request of the Principal, the Board of Education last night gave permission to have the cadet corps affiliate with the reserve battalion of the Lincoln and Welland Regiment. This affiliation, by which officers will be available for instruction purposes, was suggested by the authorities.

Uniforms for the corps will be simple, consisting of a wedge style hat and badges. The remainder of the uniform will consist of clothing which all students can procure without any difficulty.

Taggers Obtained Hundred And Fifty Dollars For Blind

The Tag Day for the Blind held last Saturday was the most successful so far, showing an advance over last year of more than $25.00, and resulting in the sum of $150.64 being turned over to the Institute for the Blind.

The taggers were Gertrude Webb, Mary Johnson, Olga Ivanchuk, Betty Larsen, Barbara Bromchuk, Leone Tremaine, Evelyn Griffith, Shirley Croft, Betty Shantz, Hilda Pilon, Alberta Fellows, Marilyn McCartney, Pauline Reace, Elaine Brownlee, Verba Shafer, Mary Dunne, Bernard MacMillan, Donald Catton, David Pickett, George Tremaine, Arthur Webb, George Wilson, Cecil Twoosch, Lewis Larsen, George Barford, George Crawford, Donald Booker, Teddy Robertson, Alfred Buckenham and David Todd. The star tagger was Gertrude Webb, who collected $18.25.

The tag day was organized by Mrs. Wm. Groce and Mrs. A. V. Catton.

Bowling Alley To Be Built

Arrangements were completed this week for the erection of four bowling alleys in the premises formerly occupied by Kanmacher's restaurant. George Kanmacher, proprietor of the restaurant which has been closed, and James Wray, owner of the building, have come to an agreement, and it is expected that the work of installing the alleys will be commenced in the near future.

If and when the alleys are opened, the Grimsby Bowling League, which has been bowling in Beamsville, will play its games on the local alleys, at a great saving of time and automobile travel. The League, which has been growing more popular each year, now comprises twelve teams.

Away Back When

— By FRANK FAIRBORN, Jr. —

DO YOU REMEMBER your Grandmother. I remember mine. I also remember a lot of other kids' grandmas. What real women they were. I have a fond recollection of one incident with my Grandmother. Mother and I and the kid brother had spent the summer in Creemore, where Grandma and Grandpa were living retired from the arduous duties of the farm and spending the sunset days of their lives in peace and contentment. As we were leaving the old couple one morning before seven o'clock to catch the "Hisey Hog Special" as the branch line G.T.R. train was known, Grandma was crying. I, kid fashion called her cry-baby as I walked down the street of the little village. I have often looked back in memory, in fact I can now, and see that dear old soul, who gave her all for My Mother and for me, in her polka dot gingham dress and striped apron up to her eyes sobbing. I never saw My Grandmother alive again. I have many fond memories of the things that she did for me which I never was able to repay. Her name was Sarah and she was a cousin of the late Admiral Beattie of British Navy fame.

The death occurred four years ago of one of the greatest portrayers of human life in a small town or rural hamlet, in the person of Oscar Odd McIntyre. He, like you and I, had a grandmother. A grandmother of that old school. One of those women that I really would like to meet today. I give you herewith his portrayal of a Grandma, and I believe that it typifies all our maternal grandparents.

Because my mother went to heaven before I have any memory of her, my maternal affections were centred on my lavender and old lace grandmother, who reared me. To-day there are no grandmas who even remotely suggest the type.

Modern grandmas are likely to be flinging a rhumba with a hot cha cha at one of the jerks. My grandmother was American born Scotch and grampa was an emigre from Scotland, a dour kindly man with penetrating eyes and a lowland burr. Grandpa had a lovely name. It was Joan.

For a long time the companionships of boys and girls did not interest me. I was content to play by myself in the backyard until time for the afternoon nap, when grandma would read from Grimm's fairy tales while rocking in the company chair, the one with the crinkled tidy.

In the evening, my face scrubbed and shining, we would take our pillows and sit on the front stoop until Geo-George House passed on way home, certain sign it was precisely 9 o'clock. I always looked forward to helping grandma close the shutters.

Later on father, becoming a little more prosperous with his Missouri hotel, bought us a horse and carriage. Black Charlie and a two-seated chaise with canopied fringe! Aunt Kate, driving, and sister and I in the front seat and grandma and I in the rear. Sometimes we would jog along the upper river road, other times the lower and now and then travel back country across the covered bridge and past the Children's home. Often grandma would have a surprise in the side pocket of her black foulard dress, a poke of gum drops or pebbly pink almonds. Too, I would often go to sleep while she crooned her favourite song, Bring Back My Bonnie.

During my early boyhood I played mostly with girls. There were no boys on our block. A divestment was the pin show Mary

Loyalty To Christ

St. Mark 2:14-17; St. John 8:12-13; Philippians 3:7-11.

GOLDEN TEXT

What things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ.

An Introduction to the Lesson
According to Scripture emphasis, we ought to voluntarily yield our wills to Him who has given Himself for us, and thus our service may be the glad happy obedience of those who delight in the will of God above all else. We see in the ready obedience of Levi the publican, otherwise called Matthew, an example of what should be characteristic of all whose hearts have been won by Christ.

A Lesson Outline

- Three men and Christ's call. Levi Matthew (Mark 2).
- An ostracized publican (verse 14a).
- The Master's command (verse 14b).
- The loyal response (verse 14c).
- Peter (John).
- The defection of many disciples (verse 66).
- The Master's question (verse 67).
- Peter's reply (verses 68-69).
- Christ's claims recognized (verse 7).
- Unchanging devotion (verse 8).
- Righteousness in Christ (verse 9).
- Conformity to Christ (verse 10).
- The future prospect (verse 11).

The Heart of the Lesson

The Lordship of Christ involves for us complete subjection of heart and life to Him. He is the master, we are the servants. We ought to yield our bodies a living sacrifice to prove experimentally what is good and acceptable and perfect will of God (Romans 12:1, 2).

An Application

It is the height of inconsistency to call Jesus "Lord" and yet to live for self. "If He is not of all, He is not Lord at all."

In Paul, faith and surrender took place at the same time. With most of us there is a period after conversion before we yield fully to the Lord.

If any speak ill of thee, fly home to thy own conscience and examine thine heart. If thou art guilty, it is a just correction; if not guilty, it is a fair instruction.—George Herbert.

October Picnics

Everybody should have an October picnic — a day in the woods when the world is full of colour and the air is laden with odours of much ripeness. But such a picnic is hard to arrange for. As a matter of fact it should not be arranged for at all. If you try to arrange to have your picnic on a certain day, when your friends and relatives can go with you, there are many chances to one that a cold wind will be blowing, that it will be raining, or that the day will be cloudy and misty.

The proper way to enjoy an October picnic is to wait until a supreme morning comes when the sun rises clear and a little breeze is whispering from the south. If the signs are all set for a perfect day, let the spirit within you rise in rebellion against all forms of labour. Telephone to the office or factory that urgent family affairs require your attention for that day, and then assemble your family or intimate group of friends, raid the pantry and grocery stores for the making of an outdoor meal and hie you to the country — to the woods — by whatever means is at your command. It is all right to have in mind such practical things as locating a winter supply of apples that may be bargained for or a winter supply of nuts which may be picked, but the more carefree you can make the day the better.

There is nothing in nature more languorous than a perfect October day in Ontario, and such a day enjoyed to the full will give rest and refreshment that will endure in memory through the whole year. The colours will delight the eye, the crickets will delight the ear, the odour of ripe leaves on the damp ground will rise to the nostrils like incense, the sun and air will bathe you with healing, and when you eat your food in some sunny spot you will realize why you were blessed with a palate. You will go home at night carrying armfuls of bright leaves and strange berries of marvellous hue. And you will feel that life is very good.

But do not try to arrange for this picnic. If you do you will be almost sure to pick on the most disagreeable day of the season. Wait till the right day comes and then play hockey. That will great-add to your pleasure.

—By Peter McArthur, in Around House.

Nutritious Main Course Is Found In Fish Dishes

Such dishes as fish loaf, casserole of vegetable and fish, baked fish cooked with vegetables and fish chowder, give a complete and nutritious meal for the main course in one dish. In this way fuel and dishes are kept at a minimum, while the loss of food value in cooking is also diminished. In cooking a chowder, for instance, the water and fish stock used in cooking the vegetables with any dissolved nutrients in them are part of the chowder. Thus the food value of fish dishes can be made very high.

Dried salt codfish is a fish product that is not as widely used as it might be. It is easily kept and quickly prepared and is a good package to have on hand for emergency meals.

To freshen tear in pieces and toss in a bowl of cold water for a few minutes, changing the water when it becomes milky with salt. Or place in a sieve and run water through the fish, tossing it with a fork. Place in cold water on the stove and bring to a simmer for a few minutes. This further freshens the fish and cooks it at the same time. Never boil it since boiling toughens it. Various recipes for dried codfish are available in "100 Tempting Fish Recipes," a booklet available from the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa.

MEET THE DAY

We must rise the day to meet. As the things of earth arise: Birds that face the eastward skies, By the dew of night made sweet: From the hills the shades retreat, With the dawn the darkness dies: Only golden sunshine lies On the valley, on the street.

You will find it less easy to uproot faults, than to choke them by gaining virtues.—John Ruskin.

Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving Day on October 12th seems a little on the early side for those of us who live in this part of Ontario, don't you think? We are still too near the turmoil of the fruit harvest to feel festive. And one wonders if Ontario turkeys are properly sized up by that time. If there is a heat wave, which there will be, turkey and fixin's seems unseasonable, anyway; and with time and gasoline rationing the way they are, it's no time to drive "out to Old Aunt Mary's."

However, whether we celebrate Thanksgiving with the traditional dinner or not, it's a good time to think of our mercies and be thankful.

A Matter of Etiquette

A valued reader of this column whom we had occasion to telephone, broke into the midst of the confab to ask, quite without malice, "Who ends a telephone conversation, the caller or the called?"

The onus is on the one who calls. Now that the telephone company is urging, as a war measure, that only essential calls be made, and those as brief as possible, we should plan our conversation ahead, and know just exactly what we want to ask or tell. Telegraphic brevity combined with a quiet, pleasant voice will go a long way toward speeding up business and preventing bottle-necks.

But it's not necessary to slam down the receiver so sharply as to chip a piece out of your party's ear.

Month of Falling Leaves

Until Saturday the leaves were still as fresh and green as in early summer, but overnight the weather changed, and in the morning the ground was covered with gold from the maples and hickories. The showers from the south-east had worked the miracle. Between gusts of rain one could see that the mountainside was tinted with bronze and red patches that were not there the day before.

The drive was full of robins on Saturday quietly and busily picking up chickweed seeds. From the anxious chirping and twittering from among the pear trees in the garden below, we concluded that one or more late broods of young robins were leaving the nest and awkwardly starting out on their own. The young things will never have the strength to go south with the rest of the crowd. They will probably stay behind, and those that survive the rigours of our winter will be halled, along in January or February, as "First Robins" by their local newspaper and Andy Clark.

Playing With Fire

The drive for waste materials to be turned into weapons of war is a two-fold good. The catch-all corners under the eaves, over the garage and in the cellar are being turned out, and the old books and papers, old clothing, and so on, that constituted a fire hazard have been given the air and are on their way to various industrial plants to help win the war.

Canada's greatest saboteur to-day is fire, says the Canadian Underwriters' Association. Last year more than twenty million dollars worth of property went up in flames. Over one million three hundred and seventy-one million of this, or 28% of all fires, was caused by careless smokers; and this figure does not include forest fires, either.

If we have been keeping house any length of time and live in an oldish or biggish house, it is more-than-likely that we are hoarders of trash, i.e., potential fire-bugs and friends of Hitler.

DON'T keep the home fires burning with valuable war materials. Dig out the glory holes and put the salvage to work for victory. Anyway, from now on you'll never have time to look at those musty books or make over the faded suits and hats.

Our Weekly Recipe

WHAT DO YOU MEAN—RUTABAGA?

That excellent vegetable, the yellow or Swede turnip, has now appeared in our grocery stores on Main street, and we welcome it to our fall and winter tables. In the dining rooms of smart resort hotels "down South" it is made much of, and appears on the menu as "Canadian rutabaga," which is nothing but the truth, strange as it may sound. Before the war, and perhaps even yet, many a carload of our yellow turnips found its way down the alimentary canal of holidaying Americans.

Jacques Cartier understood the value of the turnip, for we read that he sowed turnip seed in 1540, during his voyage of discovery; and in 1799 Indians were growing it in their villages near what is now Geneva, N. York. It was grown as long ago as the Bronze Age in Sweden, and among the early Romans was an important cultivated plant.

There are many appetizing ways of preparing it for the table, and we have selected a recipe from Chateaubriand which "has everything." Let's try it for supper some hungry night soon.

Meat and Turnip Pie—4 cupsful of sliced turnips, 1 quart of boiling water, 4 tablespoons of flour, salt and pepper to taste, 2 cupsful of cooked beef (if you can get it) or lamb.

Cook the turnips in the boiling water until tender. Blend the flour with an equal amount of cold water and mix to a smooth paste, then add to the turnips and cook several minutes until thickened. Add the seasoning and the cooked meat and pour into a baking dish. Make a biscuit dough and roll the dough about one-half inch thick. Cut into biscuits and place on top of the hot mixture so that they do not touch each other. Bake in a hot oven—400 deg. Fahr.—for about one-half hour or until the biscuits are done. Parsnips or squash may be substituted for turnips, if desired.

Eat more rutabagas; they're Canadian, and what's more they are good food. You may pick a better one occasionally, but forget it, and buy your next one from another store. Turnips vary in flavour according to the section of the country they grow in.

"Thanksgiving Day is only our annual time for saying grace at the table of eternal goodness."—James M. Ludlow, D.D.

LET US GIVE THANKS

"In everything give thanks!"
For the beauty of the trees,
As they sway in autumn breeze;
For the flowers and the showers,
For the lovely sunny hours;
For the brightness, for the rain;
For the rest which follows pain;
For the pleasant books to read;
For kind friends in time of need;
For the earth and for the sky;
For the friend who's always nigh;
For the sure, sweet hope of Heaven,
Which my God to me has given;
For the blessed hour of prayer
When on Him I cast my care;
For the strong desire to prove
Worthy of this Heavenly love;

Paying On The Nail

To pay on the nail means, simply, to pay ready cash. It is equivalent to "cash on the spot."

Just why we should say "pay on the nail" or "down on the nail" is not quite clear, unless we accept the theory that it comes from a Latin word "ungulus" (derived from "ungula," a nail, claw or hoof) and that the Latin "ungulus" means a reckoning. However, the saying is very old.

In "Recollections," by O'Keefe, it is recorded that in the centre of Limerick Exchange there is a pillar with a circular plate of copper about three feet in diameter, called "the Nail," on which the earnest of all stock exchange transactions has to be paid. A similar custom prevailed at Bristol, England, where there were four pillars, called "Nails," in front of the exchange, for a similar purpose. In Liverpool Exchange there is a plate of copper called "the Nail" on which bargains are settled.

A PICTORIAL ROUTINE

If you want to consistently make snapshots as technically fine as this, establish a picture-making routine and follow it.

When most people get their first good camera, they immediately expect something wonderful to happen. They feel that all their picture-making troubles will drift away with the wind, and simultaneously they expect their camera to start producing pictures like our illustration—perfectly exposed and composed, and replete with human interest.

There's no doubt that the camera—a good camera—is capable of doing that. But there's one other factor which must also be considered—that is, the mind behind the camera. A camera won't think for you. You're the one who has to do the thinking, and if you don't think things through you're likely to let your camera down.

Basically that means you can't be careless about any aspect of picture making, and get good pictures. And for that reason I'd suggest that you establish a routine covering the most important steps in your picture making, and double check each step until you know them all by heart.

Begin by asking yourself if you have selected a subject which is really interesting? Does it tell a story in itself, or is the picture part of a longer story you are telling with your camera? Have you got everything in the picture that you want, or are you taking in too much? Have you chosen a good angle of view? Is your composition pictorially sound, like the picture above?

When you're serious of those points, check up on your focus—is it sharp? Measure the distance if you're in doubt. Then look to your shutter speed—is it fast enough to stop any movement in your subject? Are you giving a full normal exposure? Finally, are you releasing the shutter so gently that the camera will not be jarred as the picture is taken?

Check your technique that way for just a little while, and you'll find that your picture quality will take a hop, skip, and jump—upwards.

RADIO SPOTLIGHT

DIALING WITH DAVE...

The nation's two greatest ad-lib wizards, Fred Allen and his newest team-mate, Arthur Godfrey, promise the laugh-hungry world a double-barreled "fun gun" as the new series of shows get underway at 9.30 Sunday nights. In addition to Portland Hoffa, Al Goodman's celebrated orchestra, and the Zany Workshop Players, Fred plans to have an array of guest stars and guest singers... different ones each week. With Godfrey in his troupe, Fred Allen, the master satirist of radio, makes good his promise to pack "an hour's worth of laughs" into the new half-hour Sunday program. Maybe you people would like a little information about the said Arthur Godfrey. Well, he is the citizen who rose to fame overnight by completely "busting up" his morning program. He smashed a phonograph record because it was "punk music anyhow"; ripped a commercial announcement to shreds because no intelligent audience would "listen to such gush"; then gave his own sincere appraisal of the product. Instead of being fired, as he expected, he became famous. He's had as many as fifty sponsors at one time; never uses scripts; makes notes on envelope back and matchbook covers, loses them, and ad-libs for as much as two hours of air time! Now need we ask you to be listening? Of course not—'cause everyone's bound to be on hand for the new series of Fred Allen shows each Sunday at 9.30 p.m. from CKOC.

Attention folks, here is some really important news in the drama field! Each Tuesday and Friday evening at 8.00 o'clock drama, the like of which has never been heard before, comes to you through CKOC. Based on actual happenings related by Douglas Miller, who was for five years Commercial Attache of the American Embassy in Berlin, You Can't Do Business with Hitler realistically dramatizes the daring—the cunning—the blackmailing German tactics in their business dealings with American and European countries! It just definitely proves that You Can't Do Business with Hitler—but just for your own information, give a listen each Tuesday and Friday evening at 8.00 o'clock—you won't regret it!

And this column wouldn't be complete without mentioning another timely and well-presented show—Badge of Honour! Heard each Sunday at 12:45 noon, Badge of Honour tells the story behind famous Canadian decorations for bravery, and highlights the story in each episode, of one Canadian who has won a certain particular badge in the field of battle. Remember the time—12:45 every Sunday afternoon!

War Savings Certificates and War Bonds are once again in the lime light, and they look mighty fine too, don't they! The Dominion Government is giving 1150 listeners the best line-up of programs

He Serves Best Who Saves Most Is Advice Given To Canadians

In the winter of 1942-43, Canadians will serve best who save most. Signs along the Wartime Prices and Trade Board path during the month of September pointed to conservation.

Save fuel, save collapsible metal tubes, curtail purchases of pork, ham and bacon—this was the advice given to Canadian shoppers. Manufacturers of men's and boy's furnishings were given instructions how to conserve material both in their manufacture and in their packaging.

Proof that second-hand equipment is becoming increasingly important in Canada at war was shown in the regulations laid down covering maximum prices to be charged for used goods. Materials are pouring into munitions, and civilians must learn to "make do" with second hand things. According to September orders passed by the Board, prices were set for used electric stoves, used sewing machines and used typewriters.

Metal being on the list of "musts" for war industries—collapsible metal tubes must be salvaged. Their importance was emphasized in an Order declaring that no retailer could sell toothpaste or shaving cream in a tube, unless an old one was turned in by the purchaser. It doesn't have to be exactly the same kind of tube, however—any collapsible make will do.

Because exports of pork, ham and bacon to Great Britain must be kept up, Ottawa authorities asked consumers to co-operate by curtailing their purchases of this meat until after November 1. This is to make sure that available supplies get into the export market. However, as there is no ban on sausages, tenderloin, head cheese, pig's feet and knuckles because they are not shipped abroad, these pork products can be bought as available without a single twinge of conscience.

Fuel saving is asked of Canadians everywhere. Problems of labor and transportation make fuel administrators fearful of a short-ever—how do they sound to you? First, there is Claire Wallace with her daily commentary on the doings of Canadian women at 1.45 p.m. You know, ever since Claire graced our fair city with her visit a short time ago, we've realized more than ever, the importance of this show in encouraging the sale of War Savings Stamps. Then at 7.30 to 8.00 o'clock Sunday evenings, that dynamic drama series Nazi Eyes on Canada is aired. This is particularly significant, because we all know that by our savings we are keeping the Nazi from getting any more than their "eyes" on Canada. And then last but by no means least, is the All Star Variety Show on Wednesday nights. This is a full hour—from 9.00 to 10.00 o'clock—of the best possible in radio entertainment. On the air will be featured top-ranking stars from screen, stage, and radio—all giving their services to further promote Canada's war effort. You hear all three from CKOC.

Keys To Victory

A smart new pastime, for which the war is responsible, is a Key Hunt. You and your friends search out all your old and unused keys and turn them over to your local salvage committee. The game goes to the one collecting the most keys.

We see by the papers that the Toronto police have turned over to salvage workers seventy-five pounds of keys recovered from house and shop-breakers. The keys have been accumulating in the basement at police headquarters since the department moved to its new home in 1934.

Farmers Who Use Electric Milkers Should Follow Rules of Conservation

For farmers using electric milkers there are a number of rules they should follow if the rubber parts of the milker itself are going to last for the duration.

The first general rule to follow is to make it a practice to milk the cows as quickly as possible, not only for the good of the cow, but to conserve the milker parts.

Use two separate sets of liners, alternating each week. In this way the rubber has a chance to rest and renew its life.

Keep the rubber parts clean and free from all butterfat. This eliminates one cause of rubber deterioration.

In cleaning parts of the milker do not use strong chloride solutions. Such solutions leave rough deposits on the rubber. If used according to instructions on the can, a lye solution tends to prolong the life of the rubber parts.

As rubber cuts easily, handle the rubber parts carefully.

Avoid pulling and stretching the inflations. Using rubber tape or vulcanized patches over holes in inflations helps to give additional wear.

It has been found very helpful to keep all the rubberware in a pail of clean, cold water in the milk cooler tank or some other cold place.

"I'M A FREE MAN!"

"I'm glad I live in Canada. My family is safe here. There is no Gestapo, no hunger, no brutal aggression. I have a good job, and I am free, and unafraid."

"In many lands, the people have been robbed and beaten, their money and possessions forcibly taken from them. Here in my country, I can lend my money and know that it is safe, backed by all the resources of Canada, and that I will get interest on it, too. I am gladly doing without some things so as to be ready to lend every dollar I can to the country that has been so good to me and my family."

Every dollar you lend to Canada helps to protect you... gives you the right to work in personal freedom instead of under brutal dictators... enables you to live your own life, for yourself and your loved ones.

Victory Bonds are a good way to save... this country has always paid back every penny loaned to it, with interest. Plan now how you can lend your money... figure how you can save to lend more. Back up the men who are fighting for your freedom... let your self-denial show your loyalty to Canada.

Buy An Apple

REPORTS from various cities throughout the Dominion show that there is a disconcerting rise in juvenile delinquency. There are many reasons for this, but the reasons are not nearly so important as steps being taken to meet the situation. It arises from causes which are well known and recognized. Various organizations and departments of government have taken an interest in the situation.

The publicity given this situation serves to emphasize the work which is being done by the Boy Scouts organization, and, happily, comes on the eve of the Scouts annual appeal for support. Next Saturday our Scouts will be selling apples to raise funds for their activities, and those who support the troop through this means will be helping a most worthy cause. The Scouts are not seeking charity in the usually-accepted sense of the word. Throughout the year they are on call to assist in any community undertaking, and the help they receive on Saturday will be but one way of saying "thank you" to a group of zealous young men and to their leaders who spend so much time and effort in giving them a true realization of citizenship.

Buy an apple on Saturday, and don't haggle over the price. No set price is being set, but the apples sold will be worth more than is paid for them.

In And Out

THE Communist party in Canada has become, through the action of the Minister of Justice in releasing its leaders, as strange an organization as any found in the Dominion. The order outlawing the party still stands, but those who lead the party, and presumably the entire party membership, is free to come and go as they please. From reports of the methods by which the release orders were decided upon, the men held were arrested because they were members of the party, and released after a review of their individual position with regard to the war program of the country. As things now stand, everyone who claims allegiance to the Communist party is subject to arrest, but the fact that a person is arrested for being a member of the party does not preclude the fact that he may be freed, and may work, as Mr. Tim Buck stated he would, for the lifting of the ban on the Communist party.

A Communist may be interned on his record of having been a member of the party. His release may be brought about through his undertaking to refrain from participating in the party's activities. But throughout the time when Mr. Buck and his associates were "in hiding", numerous statements have appeared in the daily papers calling for a lifting of the ban, and these have appeared over the signature of "The Tim Buck Committee" for this or that. The party remained active, and there is little doubt but that those responsible for the activities were in touch with Mr. Buck. It may be that Mr. Buck looked over the various statements and gave his approval to them. Would not that fact make those concerned liable for prosecution on a charge of withholding the whereabouts of men who were regarded, at the time, almost in the same light as enemy aliens?

As it now stands, the Communist party is illegal, but members of the party can work for the lifting of the ban on the Communist party, but can take no part in the party's activities. The situation is one which would tickle the imagination of W. S. Gilbert.

A Great Figure Passes

THE West has many legendary figures, some real, some fictitious. None, probably, has carved such a place for herself as did Cora Hind, who passed away this week in her eighty-second year. Miss Hind was one of those people you read about in books. She joined the staff of the Winnipeg Free Press in 1901, and began her study of agricultural topics almost immediately. She soon was agricultural editor of her paper, and later took over the position of commercial editor.

Each year she made a fact-finding tour throughout the western provinces, travelling thousands of miles to find out just how the grain crops were coming along. It has been a standing joke that her estimates have often been closer to the actual yield than those made by experts of the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

ment of Agriculture. She was also an authority on live stock, and her services as a judge of horses and cattle were in great demand throughout the continent.

Seven years ago, at the age of seventy-four she retired from her newspaper post and made a two year trip around the world, visiting the British Isles and practically all European countries, including Russia. From this trip two books were written, and much of the material for her weekly article in the Free Press Prairie Farmer collected. Her daily office routine, was maintained until her health began to fail two years ago. She lived alone, and liked it.

Miss Hind's life work was another contribution to the development of the Canadian West.

A Unique Venture

A returned soldier, who knows just what men overseas like and want to receive from those at home, is working hard to put on a big show by which he hopes to raise money for soldiers' comforts. He is Roy Laba, son of one of our most prominent new Canadians, and his ambitious project is deserving of the fullest support. Mr. Laba has come back from Great Britain with serious injuries which will require treatment for a long time, and which make strenuous work of any kind almost impossible.

Despite this fact, he is putting long hours of work into his enterprise, and has imported some interesting talent to liven up the affair. There is to be an auction sale for which the auctioneer has given his time, and from which those with articles to sell can dispose of them at a cost of fifteen per cent of the selling price. This is little more than the auctioneer's fees, and will mean more cheer for the boys in uniform.

Why not resolve now that this project is going to have your support? The boys will appreciate it, you will enjoy it, and a young man who has the drive and energy to turn around and try to do something for his former comrades after being discharged from the army will feel that his efforts were quite worthwhile.

Lowering Our Standards

WITH the addition of national defense studies on top of their shortened school year, Grimsby's high school students are faced with an extremely heavy year. They have wholeheartedly co-operated with the lengthened hours that were introduced last year, and the senior matriculation candidates are going to begin Saturday classes in another week. The upper school examinations in normal times cover a tremendous field, and this year, with the factors arising out of wartime, the young men and women attempting them will have all they can do to finish their year successfully.

That a war such as engages this country should entail disruptions in the lives of younger people is to be expected. Some doubts, however, are being raised regarding the sacrifices which are entailed when schools remain closed for so many months in the school year. The high school graduate, even if he obtains all his subject standings, has missed a great deal which he might have little opportunity of getting latter.

Officials of the Department of Education in Toronto will admit, off the record, that the scholastic standing of the high school graduates is falling, and many principals will confirm this statement. The reasons for the shortened school year have been fully explained. Help was necessary for the harvesting of one of the biggest food crops in the country's history. A survey to determine whether or not the amount of work put in by high school students for this purpose made the extra few months of school holidays worth while might well be made. Many hundreds of students worked very hard during the summer, but, according to members of boards of education throughout the province, many hundreds did not work at all, or else took work which was not essential, and which was not intended when the high schools were ordered to remain closed for four weeks in September.

This sacrifice of scholastic standards, and it is a sacrifice, is one which should be carefully considered in future years. High school matriculation certificates stand for something, but no one can deny that the scholastic standing of the past two years has been reduced. The young man or woman who has an upper school certificate dated 1939 has something of greater value than those holding a similar certificate for 1941 or 1942. University courses are not being altered to take allowances for this fact, nor are the requirements of business and the professions.

If the sacrifice of scholastic standards will help win the war, then they too must be thrown into the melting pot of the nation's war effort. If it is found that it is doing no good on the outcome of the war, the advisability of making such demands on our young people should be thoroughly considered. If the sacrifice is continued, we, as a nation, are going to have a group of wartime matriculants whose ability to master university education will be distinctly below par. We will find that candidates for electrical and chemical engineering, and a host of other highly specialized professions will have great difficulty in completing their course. It may be that the universities will lower their standards for these people, but this will not result in top-flight degree holders. The whole trend in our industrial life goes for higher qualifications to meet new and intricate conditions. The war has proved this. When the war is over, we will need the best brains we have, and these brains will have to be developed with the best training we can give them.

SAID AND WRITTEN

A NEW TUNE

We must hold everything and wait and see who tires the soonest.
Adolph Hitler, addressing winter relief mass meeting.

NO STOPPING THEM

Prediction is not my business, but I would be prepared to make a substantial bet that the confident and aggressive spirit I have seen in Sinkiang, in Kansu and Szechwan is not likely to be stopped by floods, earthquakes or by the Japanese.

Wendell L. Willkie, in China.

A GRAVE PORTENT

Our farmers, producing the food without which neither our armed forces nor our munitions workers could continue, are doggedly trying to maintain and even expand production with far less than adequate help.

Elliott M. Little, Director of National Selective Service.

LESS TALK, PLEASE

I welcome the opportunity of again emphasizing the undesirability of public statements or of speculation as to the time and place of future Allied offensive operations, even though such statements or speculations are based in inference and not, as the suggestion seems to imply, on inside information.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill

THE CLEAR CONTRAST

The contrast is clear enough, and we may draw our own conclusions from it—Hitler repeatedly promising his people that victory and peace were just round the corner, and Winston Churchill willing to promise his people nothing but "blood, toil, tears and sweat." Nothing illustrates more clearly the difference in method and morale between a dictatorship and a democracy. In a dictatorship morale is a tender plant.

Viscount Halifax, before the Foreign Policy Association.

COOKING WITH GAS

Pal, they didn't know what hit 'em. This was the eighth raid for my crew. It was the first time I ever saw the guns of all six Fortresses of my formation firing at the same moment. We were really cooking with gas, pal. The Germans obviously were puzzled as to how to attack the Fortresses. The last time they tried it from above they caught hell. This time they tried from below and caught another mess. Maybe they don't try it again—I hope. But, chum, if they do—

Capt. Frederick Dallas, U.S. Army flier after a jaunt over Germany.

ANOTHER GRAVE PORTENT

Unfortunately Canada's 1942 production (of timber), owing to labor shortage, will be considerably less. This is most unfortunate, and the industry must, individually and collectively, lend every effort to come as near to last year's production as is physically possible. It is not anticipated that Canada's uses will be as great, because civilian uses will be further restricted and Government uses under much more rigid control, but the British and United States demand is greater. . . . Canada's lumber and timber production is now of paramount importance in the war effort.

A. H. Nicholson, Canada's Timber Controller.

WORDS OF YESTERYEAR

FREEDOM'S WORTH

These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of his country, but he that stands it now deserves the thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered, yet we have this consolation with us, that the harder the conflict, the more glorious the triumph. What we obtain too cheap, we esteem too lightly: 'Tis dearness only that gives everything its value. Heaven knows how to set a price upon its goods; and it would be strange indeed if so celestial an article as freedom should not be highly rated.

From "Common Sense" by Thomas Paine.

Australia's Special War Task

The Melbourne Herald

AUSTRALIA'S army has a special job to do in the war that no other army in the world is so placed to do and which must be done if the war is to be won. It is not the job of preparing to fight in Australia against a possible army of invasion. Australia is too big a land for a population of seven million people to defend if Japan were ones in a position to land its forces where it pleased. Australia's defence lies wherever the Japs are gathered for attack. It now lies in driving the Japanese out of the islands they have occupied in the South Pacific. This must be Australia's special task in the war because we are the nearest of the Allied countries to the islands.

Communists Have Been Busy

The Hamilton Review

THE voices of Premier Hepburn and Attorney General Conant, added to the demand for release of Communists from internment, may help to prod Minister of Justice St. Laurent into action. But he has already withstood a great deal of demanding and much of it has also come from quarters which have, in years past, screamed the red bogey at the slightest excuse.

The voluntary surrender of Tim Buck, Stewart Smith and other leading Communists who have eluded the Minister of Justice's officers for a couple of years, does not improve Mr. St. Laurent's position. Many are wondering what the R.C.M.P. offers as an excuse for not having had the most of these men in custody. With the leaders of the Communist Party at large all this time it would be nonsense to claim that the outlawing of the party and its members had been effective. And if Mr. St. Laurent believes for a minute that the Party has not been openly active for the last year he has had his head in the sand. The Communist Party, with many of its members in internment and its leaders in hiding, has never been as active in Canada as it has in 1942.

On The Whole . . . Good

The Toronto Evening Telegram

CANADIANS will continue to watch the President's efforts, realizing that if inflation gets under way in the United States it will spread to this country no matter how hard the Wartime Prices and Trade Board attempt to beat it down. The beef shortage in Canada, attributable to higher cattle prices across the line, is a good illustration of what happens when the economies of the two nations get too far apart.

From the standpoint of maintaining stable prices the Canadian control has worked out quite well. The cost of living index has risen only 1.2 per cent since last November against an estimated 10 per cent rise which Donald Gordon says would have occurred had price control not been in operation. If Mr. Gordon's estimate that a 10 per cent increase in prices would have added between $350,000,000 and $400,000,000 to household costs in Canada, it is an important factor to place on the balance against the beef shortage and the inconveniences and losses sustained by merchants. But it has been admitted by Mr. Gordon himself that all the controls he has applied or can apply will go for naught unless the administration in the United States enforces equally rigid ceiling against wage increases and farm prices.

The two are interdependent. If one goes up the other seeks to follow it, and the inflationary spiral of each chasing the other results.

Hitler's Greatest Hate

The New York Times

FOR all but one of his enemies Churchill had previously called him contemptible. Even when he uses the word "hate" it is in the mechanical sense in which German leaders have always been able to turn on and turn off their hate. They address their songs of hate in this direction—U.S. direction, according to the military situation. The necessary to do so much road-normal Hitler tone in facing the building, through the Russian West is a snarl out military swampland; the Russians manage to cover the ground somehow. To whom fly around the world which the Fushers replies: "The shirts and somberness like a silk Russian is some kind of swamp-body we can guess. It is a tragedy that is no European. It is a bit more difficult (for Germans) to get ahead in that morass than it is for a people who were born for a life in that mire."

WHY YOU'LL HAVE BAKING SUCCESS WITH CALUMET

THESE days, no woman can afford to risk cake failures. To make sure their cakes are always gloriously light and tender—with what cake experts call "velvety-crumbs"—so many women are using Calumet Double-Acting Baking Powder.

DOUBLE-ACTION SAFEGUARDS SUCCESS

With Calumet, two separate leavening actions protect your cake from start to finish. The first action takes place when you add liquid to the dry ingredients. Thousands of tiny bubbles go surging through the batter making it light and fluffy.

A second leavening action takes place in the oven. Released by heat, thousands more tiny bubbles slowly lift your cake high—and hold it there. They make rising even and steady and assure a cake that's soft as finest velvet.

TRIPLE ECONOMY TOO

Calumet is a thrifty baking powder because it gives so much for so little.

- 1 It costs very little to buy.
- 2 Most recipes call for only 1 teaspoon of Calumet to each cup of flour.
- 3 Its double-action is timed and balanced to assure the utmost in baking protection and perfection.

Truly a thinking man is the worst enemy the Prince of Darkness can have; every time such a one announces himself, I doubt not, there runs a shudder through the Net Empire; and new emissaries are trained, with new tactics, to, if possible, entrap him, and hoodwink and handcuff him.—T. Carlyle.

To Save Rubber BUS SERVICE between BUFFALO and TORONTO WILL BE REDUCED

Commencing Tuesday, Oct. 13th

Rubber is not available in sufficient quantities to continue to build the tires that are necessary to maintain bus services at their present peak.

However, since bus services are an essential link in the vital home front communication system, it is believed that rubber for bus tires will be a first allotment after the requirements of our armed forces have been met.

Nevertheless, stocks of rubber are so low that every device to save tires must be practised to ensure the continuance of bus services for essential wartime travel.

As a tire conservation measure, service on several routes will be curtailed after Monday, October 12th.

What Other Means Are Used To Save Tires?

Before resorting to the drastic plan of reducing service in the face of a continually growing demand for more service, Gray Coach Lines has adopted other method of conserving tires:

- Non-essential services have been discontinued.
- Speed on the highways has been greatly reduced.
- Tires are checked for correct air pressure, and examined daily for cuts or embedded metal or glass fragments.
- Tires are retreaded to give maximum mileage.

What Can You Do To Save Tires?

You can cooperate in the effort to reduce service to the minimum essential for war activities:

- By travelling only when it is absolutely necessary for you to do so.
- By avoiding week-end travel.
- By taking as little baggage as possible.

The emergency created by the shortage of rubber can be kept from reaching a serious crisis, only by your cooperation. The above facts are placed before you, in the hope that you will realize that it is no longer possible to maintain normal high standards of service.

You may not be able to go some place just when you would like to. The bus you ride in may not be so new and there may not be a seat for everyone.

Use Canadian Foods At Thanksgiving When Chicken, Turkey Are Plentiful

It is not unfitting that Canadians should celebrate Thanksgiving this year as usual, for even in the midst of war we have much for which to be thankful if we compare our lot with that of the people of Europe. Food is still abundant in Canada, though some familiar foodstuffs are missing or scarce, Canadians are still living in a land of plenty. A truly bountiful harvest has been gathered in, so let us celebrate Thanksgiving this year in the true spirit of the season.

Make a point of serving Canadian foods for Thanksgiving as well as for everyday meals. Once again, your co-operation is urgently requested in the matter of buying, or rather, NOT buying pork. Please refrain from buying bacon, hams or fresh pork except tenderloins, sausages, head cheese, pig's feet and knuckles until you get the word that Britain's requirements have been met.

Let us return to the question of Thanksgiving dinner. Turkey or chicken will probably be your choice for the main course; either will be patriotic as well as traditional this year, as both are plentiful. Canadian grown cranberries or home made pickles or jelly will provide the correct accompaniment.

Squash, Brussels sprouts, turnips and cauliflower are among the home grown vegetables which are at their best at the Thanksgiving season. A deep flaky-crust apple pie made from Canadian apples and served with Canadian cheese, or the ever popular and traditional pumpkin pie will round out this all Canadian menu.

Laura Pepper, Chief, Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture suggests the following menu for Thanksgiving dinner.

Chilled Grape Juice
Carrot and Celery Sticks
Chicken Casserole
Red Currant Jelly

Baked Potato Brussels Sprouts
Deep Apple Pie, Canadian Cheese or

Thanksgiving Pumpkin Pie

1 chicken or fowl, 4-5 pounds
6 medium potatoes
4 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
3 cups chicken broth
3 carrots
Disjoint the chicken, cover with water, simmer one hour. Take the chicken out of the broth and remove the meat from the bones, placing it in a casserole. Slice the potatoes and carrots and arrange over the meat in layers, sprinkling each layer with salt and flour. Add the chicken broth, cover and bake 1 hour at 325 degrees. To serve, pour onto a hot platter, surround with hot baking powder biscuits and sprinkle with chopped parsley. Other vegetables, celery, onions and peas may be added to the casserole if desired.

Thanksgiving Pumpkin Pie
2 cups mashed cooked pumpkin
3 eggs, separated
1 cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ginger
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon allspice
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
3 cups scalded milk

Add sugar, spices and egg yolks to the cooked pumpkin, mix well. Add the hot milk and fold in the beaten whites. Pour into an uncooked shell and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) for ten minutes, then lower temperature to 350 degrees and continue baking until filling is set, about 30 minutes longer.

This recipe makes 1 large or 2 medium sized pies. For special occasions the addition of individual mounds of unsweetened whipped cream, with a teaspoon of honey in the centre of each mound adds a festive touch.

Householders Of Ontario And Quebec Asked To Reduce Power Consumption

Since September 20 brightly lit main streets of the towns and villages in Ontario and Quebec have been "black-out." No longer are store windows brilliant splashes of color and interest to window shoppers on Saturday nights. The reason for this condition is known by most Canadians. In these two provinces there is an acute power shortage and as war plants must be kept humming the only solution is to reduce the use of non-essential lighting.

The Munitions and Supply order appeals to all householders in the two provinces, whether in the city or on the farm to reduce their power consumption by at least 20 per cent.

Many housewives spend a great deal of time in the kitchen where in recent years they have surrounded themselves with all sorts of home electrical appliances. It is suggested that they use these appliances as sparingly as possible. If the oven is to be used at all, "all-oven" meals are suggested. Careful timing of cooking will also save power. When the oven is at the right temperature make certain that the food is ready to be popped inside.

Remember to do as much cooking as possible at non-peak-load hours. The peak load comes between 11.30 a.m. and 2.30 p.m. and around five and six o'clock in the evening when the electric lights go on in the factories and offices, and when the average housewife is beginning to prepare the evening meal.

Don't leave the hot water heater on any longer than necessary, and member to use the washing machine and electric iron sparingly.

Feather Pillows Should Be Washed In Lukewarm Suds

When feather pillows get soiled after much use, don't hesitate to wash them just as they are, without bothering to transfer the feathers to a linen bag. First cut a slit about four inches long at one end of the pillow, and sew a square of muslin securely over the slit. This lets the sudsy water in and out effectively. One pillow at a time in the washing machine gives best results. Use extra heavy lukewarm suds so the feathers will be soft and pliable. If the water becomes dirty or the bubbles go flat, mix fresh suds. Bad spots on the cover may be rubbed with a brush. Rinse three or four times in tepid water, and squeeze out the excess moisture. Hang carefully by two corners and change position during drying to help restore the fluffiness of the feathers.

Cheese Source of Calcium
Cheese is an important source of calcium. A 1 inch cube or firm cheese may be substituted for ½ pint of milk in the daily diet.

Laundry Soap Not To Be Used On Painted Walls

Washable painted walls are worthy of good care. The wrong way to clean painted walls is to wash them down with strong laundry soap or soap powder. The dirt will be removed but white paint will end up yellowed, and colored paints won't look much like they were originally.

A washable painted wall should be rubbed with a cloth or sponge wrung out of light suds made with the mildest of soap or soap powder, using even up and down strokes. Rinse the wall with a cloth or sponge wrung out of clear water, then wipe dry with a soft cloth. Home economics experts warn against using coarse scouring powder or strong alkali on paints.

If one lives right, every effort to hurt one will only help that one; for God will give the ability to overcome whatever tends to impede progress.—Mary Baker Eddy.

What men want is not talent; it is purpose; in other words, not the power to achieve, but the will to labor.—Bulwer-Lytton.

Roy Labs, who is presenting a big midway show and auction sale on October 15, 16 and 17, the proceeds of which are to be used to purchase smokes and other comforts. A sensational aerial act will feature the three nights of entertainment.

At Moore's Theatre

Orson Welles has another production which will be seen at Moore's Theatre. This time he did not conceive and write it himself, but took a famous best-seller of a few years ago and handled it in the way he thought it should be handled. The book which he has transferred to the screen is Booth Tarkington's famous "The Magnificent Ambersons", and while the treatment is new and novel, it is not so unorthodox as his former opus, "Citizen Kane".

Among those who are to be seen is Tim Holt, famed for his Western parts, and Dolores Costello, who in this picture plays the part of the mother. Music by Bernard Herrmann, rising young composer and musical director of the Columbia Broadcasting System, is also a high spot of the production. In many of the other roles are to be seen members of the Mercury Theatre, Welles' group which followed him to Hollywood after his sensational rise on Broadway.

Welles' introduction to the picture, in which he sets the time and place for his story, is well done and interesting. It provides the right atmosphere for a picture which is dated earlier in the century, when cars were new and women's clothing was more than ample. People of the older generation should enjoy this picture for the manner in which those days have been recreated.

Coming Events

The Sew-We-Knit Red Cross Group will meet on Friday, the 16th, at the home of Miss Kathleen Freeman, 7 Adelaide street.

Grimsby Mother's Club will hold its October meeting on Thursday, the 15th, at the home of Mrs. Harvey Lambert, beginning at 3 o'clock.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. Andrew's Church will hold its first meeting of the season on Tuesday, the 13th, at 3 o'clock, in the Parish Hall. There are many items of business to discuss.

The Autumn rally of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Watt, 92 Main west, at 3 p.m., on Wednesday, October 14th. The topic for study is "A Woman's Citizenship." A full attendance of members and friends will be an inspiration to the officers for the year's work.

one hundred and ninety cafeterias stands in Canada being operated by sightless persons.

In addition to this employment, there are some four hundred blind men and women who make a living in their own homes, making products which are marketed under the "Blindcraft" trade mark. Secretarial work and switchboard operation is also taught, and blind people so engaged are doing a good job in these spheres.

Members of the Lions Club are definitely identified with juvenile blindness and its prevention. Fifty per cent of the blind people should never have lost their sight. They go blind through preventable accidents and lack of proper care. The onus is on everyone. You can't prevent a sightless person from going blind.

Mr. Lyons touched on the panaceas offered over the radio by honey-throated announcers who urge cures for everything, and asked why it was that the medical men did not do anything about it. He described some of the announcements as "nauseating and sickening."

"When you go to the doctor for a check-up do you ask about your eyes? Do you do anything for them at all? Your eyes are valuable, and should not be taken for granted. We want the support of every person in Canada to help prevent blindness and to help those who have become afflicted. We want the Grimsby Lions Club leading the people of this community to help us out. We have had much support from you in the past, and I know we can count on you in the future."

TAKE NOTICE

Fruit Growers

To all those who have contracted Kieffer Pears to our factory we strongly advise that these be picked at once.

Also we are still in the market for large or small quantities of Kieffer Pears.

Anyone who has not contracted telephone 44, or write P.O. Box 536.

It is urgent that Kieffer Pears be picked at once as the season is eight to ten days earlier than 1941, and should there come a windstorm the pears would be damaged by falling on the ground.

Away Back When

might actually die at dawn!

Mary, a pretty girl with pulled taffy braids, began to have beaux and our industrial experiments languished. In the meantime my voice was changing and I was growing decidedly tough. I chewed tobacco, smoked corn cob pipes and alarmed mothers warned little Rollos to "keep away from that dreadful McIntyre boy." Grandma would chide me but was not upset by my derelictions. Outside of my wife, she was the firmest believer in my ultimate destiny. One of her treasured letters when I was, after two years away, floundering hopelessly around, said: "Some day you will live in New York with your own horse and buggy and go to hear Mother Jenny Lind sing."

I first noted grandma's feebleness when her age-mottled hands shook in reading the paper. Then I went away to business school in Cincinnati and, it developed, left the town for good. For the first year there were several trips back and I became something of a journalist wanderer. Each return marked grandma's further decline.

She had reached her 80's, dropped, shrunk, and a dull glaze to her eyes. On the last visit she did not know me, but called me "Georgie" the name of her youngest son. The day I left, never to see her again in this world, she sat at a window as the depot hack called. From it I waved as Tom Holmes clicked to his team. Her returning wave was mechanical, without emotion. For her I was lost though the mental fog that enveloped her. "She's been one of the town's finest women," said Tom Holmes, and meant it. I know that my last view of her was a wrench I can never erase. As I have often said, it was the nearest my soul ever came to breaking.
